

U.S. JUDGE OUTSAYS 'Allies Drive to Victory,' Says French Diplomat

Motion Picture Patents Company Ordered to Dissolve. Others Involved.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.—Judge Dickinson, in the United States District Court here, handed down an opinion today ordering the dissolution of the motion picture trust.

The suit was brought by the Government under the Sherman anti-trust law, against the Motion Picture Patents Company and twelve other corporations and eleven individuals engaged in the motion picture trade. The court, however, dismisses the suit against the Motion Picture Patents Company. After an examination of the record in the case, Judge Dickinson failed to find any proof to substantiate the charge of the Government that this particular defendant was in any way a party to the alleged conspiracy.

Calls It Conspiracy.

In concluding his opinion, Judge Dickinson holds that the numerous contracts entered into between the several defendants in order to secure their position as the dominating power in the motion picture business, "was a conspiracy in restraint of trade of commerce among the several States, and with foreign nations, and was illegal and that the defendants and each of them with the exception of the Motion Picture Patents Company, have attempted to monopolize and have monopolized, and have combined and conspired among themselves and with others to monopolize, a part of the trade or commerce among the several States, and with foreign nations, consisting of the trade in films, cameras, projectors, machines and other accessories of the motion picture business, as charged in the petition of the Government."

The Government filed its dissolution petition on August 16, 1912, and named the following thirteen corporations and eleven individuals as defendants:

Defendants Named.

G. A. R. DELEGATES BALLOTING TODAY

Capt. Elias R. Monfort, of Ohio, Is Favored by Many to Succeed Palmer as Chief.

deadlock between the East and West. Only three names were placed in nomination today, Captain Monfort, Colonel Cole, and Colonel Patterson. Orlando Somers, of Indiana, being unable to attend the encampment, his name was not put before the delegates.

Col. Patrick Conney's name was not presented because he has left Kansas. It is a law in the G. A. R. that all applicants for commander-in-chief must have the unanimous endorsement of their native State. The Kansas delegation met yesterday and being unable to agree on the endorsement of Colonel Conney or any other of the several Kansas applicants decided to cast its vote for Capt. Monfort. This endorsement of Colonel Conney and gave the Monfort adherents cause for great rejoicing, because it narrowed the field, and according to the version of it, made the Ohioan's election certain.

Withdraw Its Invitation.

Colonel Cole's supporters caused the withdrawal of Atlantic City's invitation to meet on the seashore next year, believing that the delegates would be unwilling to give New Jersey the endorsement and commander-in-chief as well. Although the Monfort supporters recognized this as a blow to the election of Col. Cole, they said their notebooks showed a majority of the delegates pledged to the Buckeye State candidate.

Many other matters of as much importance to the G. A. R. as the election of officers were scheduled to come before the closing session of the encampment today, among them being the report of the resolutions committee, which will deal with a number of subjects of national importance and of particular interest to the veterans. Among the resolutions to be submitted will be several dealing with pensions, one deprecating the retirement of G. A. R. veterans from Federal Government positions, and another for the free publication and circulation of G. A. R. journals containing reports of the annual encampments and memorials to departed brethren.

Some Dissatisfaction.

There was considerable dissatisfaction expressed by the veterans over the selection of Kansas City as the next meeting place, but this was explained by the withdrawal of Atlantic City, which left only Kansas City's invitation before the delegates. It is customary for the G. A. R. to accept an invitation to some city rather than select the city itself.

Held indoors because of the downpour of rain, the thousands of veterans who had remained in the city to learn the result of the election and attend the laying of the cornerstone of the Arlington amphitheater by President Wilson gathered in Camp Emory for group reunions and a general good time.

All the outdoor events scheduled for today, including the cornerstone laying and artillery drill at Fort Myer, were called off. The drill will be given tomorrow, but the cornerstone will not be laid until next week.

Tomorrow will be get-away day for the veterans, most of whom had railroad tickets good for a week. A number of excursions will be run to the nearby battlefields tomorrow, and two monuments will be unveiled at Chantilly, near Fairfax Court House, on the spots where Gen. Phil Kearney and Gen. Isaac Stevens were killed during the civil war. The unveiling ceremonies will be held tomorrow afternoon, and all veterans in the city are expected to attend.

Former Foreign Minister Stephen Pinchon Asserts Anglo-French Offense Has Guns and Supplies Enough—Weather Only Detering Factor to Present Advance.

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—The allies have the guns and the shells that will carry the present great offensive to victory, Senator Stephen Pinchon, former foreign minister of France, declared in an exclusive interview with the United Press today.

"This is the great offensive, but it has only begun," said Pinchon. "It will be thrust home before it stops, of that I am convinced."

"Until the present, we lacked materials. We had no heavy artillery. Our ammunition supplies were insufficient. Now we are amply provided with everything needed. We have both big guns and plenty of shells. If from now on we are only favored by the weather, I am sure things will go nicely."

Weather Big Factor.

"Southerners and the German positions near Vimy are now in our hands. We are making steady progress on every front. What may occasionally appear as a slackening of the great offensive need cause no surprise. Battles are not fought today as they were in the days when 100,000 men were a great army, and hours or a few days sufficed to score a great victory."

"The weather is now one of the big-

Mason Says Allies Are Opening Grand Attack

By J. W. T. MASON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—There can no longer be any doubt but that the allies have planned the present offensive in the west to develop into their long-expected major offensive. Otherwise, so careful and trained a diplomat as France's former foreign minister, M. Pinchon, would not have made the statement that the allies now have sufficient guns and ammunition to drive ahead for a definite conclusion.

Under present conditions of non-partisan war government in France, M. Pinchon occupies the place of an elder statesman and is unquestionably in the full confidence of the ministry. He must realize that there is a reverse to the medal, and by announcing the present movement as a major operation, M. Pinchon's statement will allow the Germans to claim that the allies have shot their bolt if the new movement breaks down.

This in fact is the strongest reason for believing that M. Pinchon has measured well his words, and France is willing to wait the world knows that the western allies are in the midst of their greatest effort of the war.

There is substantiation, too, for M. Pinchon's words in the fact that today marks the conclusion of the first week of the allies' offensive, without the end being yet in sight.

The announcement by the French and British governments of 48 hours' delay in all private telegrams sent to neutral countries, is an indication that highly important new military movements are under way. The nature of these must be kept secret from the enemy and to guard against every possible mischance means have thus been devised to prevent Germany from learning anything through ingenious code telegrams to neutral countries.

New points of weakness in the battlefront are now being searched for not only by the allies but also by the Germans. A German attack is reported from Arras, and quite outside the south of the Artois and Flanders offensive. Trenches have been captured and the conflict may jump to unexpected places at a moment's notice. Rome marks the beginning of the angle which the German battlefront forms as it turns gradually from a north and south direction to a west and east direction.

It may be that a new allied movement will soon develop between Rome and Solsona, with the supply centers of LaFere and Laon as objectives. This would be the natural third point of attack in co-operation with the present Artois-Flanders and Champagne offensives.

story while negotiations between Serbia and Bulgaria continue. Furthermore, it is believed it will have a good moral effect upon any Balkan state displaying warlike tendencies. And to offset German final influence in the Balkans, the allies plan to make loans to certain states to meet the heavy expenses of mobilization of their armies.

Both England and France are determined henceforth upon checking with equal measures every move made by the Germans that is calculated to bring Bulgaria into the war.

An acute stage has been reached by the mobilization, first of the Bulgarians, and then of the Greek armies, and by private reports that Roumania is about to mobilize. The allies are fully prepared to meet this new situation.

In some quarters here it is not believed the Austro-Germans plan to fight their way to Constantinople. Three hundred thousand troops have been massed along the Serbian frontier, but this force is inadequate for such an expedition. Some well-informed diplomats think the Austro-German plan is merely to terrorize the Balkan neutrals into submission to any attack for the relief of the Turks that the Germans may devise.

A wireless dispatch from Berlin two days ago reported that French and British troops actually have been landed near Salonika to go to the aid of Serbia. This report has not been confirmed from London.

passed and the public is scanning eagerly every scrap of news from the British and French fronts. A portion of the German press is inclined to see in the present offensive movement of the allies the really decisive battle of the whole war. Berlin believes that if the allies are hurled back in this attempt to break the German line peace negotiations will be under way before next summer.

Before many hours, it is believed here, the Anglo-French armies will be thrown forward in a smash at some point in the German line. While infantry sections have been vigorous principally in the Champagne and Artois regions, there has been a let-up in the bombardment of the German works at any point in the whole line.

Allied aviators are crossing and recrossing the German lines from Flanders to the Vosges, seeking out weak spots for fresh onslaughts.

No official report has come from British headquarters for several days. Press dispatches, however, convince the London public that the full force of the British attack is being directed against the Germans around Loos for the purpose of drawing off enemy reserves, thus aiding the French in their operations east of Soissons.

ALLIES PLANNING TO OCCUPY MACEDONIA

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The allies not only are ready to land troops at Salonika, but are considering the military occupation of Serbian Macedonia. It was learned here today.

This step, if it is taken, will be for the purpose of protecting Serbian territory.

POCKET WIRELESS ASTOUNDS EXPERTS

American-Invention Has Sending Radius of Over Eighteen Miles.

BEDFORD HILLS, N. Y., Oct. 1.—Dr. H. Harringer Cox has invented a pocket wireless, which he has turned over to a European government for use during the period of the war. This apparatus, which has astounded experts, is nothing more nor less than a compact and efficient receiving and sending station which may be strapped about the waist and deftly hidden in the folds of a cloak, so that it would be invisible to an unsuspecting person.

The sending apparatus consists of a box in which are five dry cells and a vibrator. The electric pulsations are started by tapping a telegraph key and the current which the doctor says is modified with a hidden transformer of his own invention sends out its messages in waves, long and short. The equivalent to a half watt or one-eighth as much is required for the ordinary electric light bulb is the amount of electricity necessary.

From the box a wire is carried down the leg of the soldier and connected with a metal plate or spur in the shoe. The receiving instrument consists of a drum about which is a coil of wires. On top of this is a very fine deflector. It has a pair of ear pieces such as is worn by telephone operators.

958,247 German Union Members Are in Army

Of the 2,300,288 members of the German Central Labor Union, 958,247, or 41.7 per cent had enlisted in the war up to April 30 last, according to a German publication. These figures give an indication of the effects of war upon trade and industry in the view of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

The trades furnishing the largest number of enlistments were in order of numerical importance, metal workers, builders' men, transportation employees, woodworkers, pottery workers, miners, textile workers, book printers, carpenters, municipal employees, and brewery, and mill workers.

TRAFFIC TIED UP BY MORNING BLAZE

F Street Fire Gives Exciting Moments—Siren Startles Passersby.

A block of buildings in the heart of the retail district was endangered, street car traffic was tied up, and hundreds of persons on their way to work were given some exciting moments by a fire in the Harris Sample Shop, 1212 F street northwest, at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

Cars on the Washington Railway and Electric line from Georgetown and Mt. Pleasant were stopped at Thirteenth and F streets, most of them being fully loaded. A large fire started at Fourteenth and K streets last week to give warning when fire apparatus was coming, startled passersby, as few knew what it was all about, as today was the first time it had sounded a warning when there were many with hearing. The siren is operated by electricity from fire alarm headquarters.

The fire was confined to the first floor and basement of the building where it was discovered. The building is three stories high, but the two upper floors are vacant. M. L. Farber, of the Saks Fur Company, which adjoins the Harris Sample Shop on the east, discovered the fire when he entered his store.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Andrew Carnegie and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., each held personal property valued at $5,000,000 in New York.

The assessment rolls, showing the tentative valuation for the 1916 tax on personal property and real estate, made public here today, place the total valuation of personal property at the enormous sum of $3,700,000,000, an increase of more than $3,000,000,000 over the final figures of $525,054,755 for 1915. The tentative real estate estimate for 1916 is $7,872,263,444.

A total of eighty-eight millionaires are listed in the personal tax list. Mildred B. Bliss ranks next to Rockefeller and Carnegie with $4,000,000.

VAULT DESECRATED, BODIES ARE REMOVED

Representatives of Old Patterson Estate Reinter Remains in Old Sepulchre.

Representatives of the old Patterson estate, the family vault of which was despoiled a few weeks ago, have caused the removal of all of the bodies which the sepulchre contained. Six were buried yesterday in Forest Glen Cemetery. Two more were cremated.

The remains of those who were interred are: Catherine W. Brent, who died July 1, 1822; Robert Brent, who died September 1, 1817; Elizabeth Carroll, who died sometime between 1813 and 1822; and Eleanor Pearson, who died March 30, 1818. The remains of John W. Farley, who died July 21, 1874, and Ellen F. Farley, who died November 19, 1867, were cremated.

The bodies were removed to protect them from further desecration at the hands of those who battered in the walls of the tomb, presumably in search of valuables.
